GREY WHALE FACT FILE

THE LOST WHALE

HANNAH GOLD

'In real life, the whale was so big, so vast, so awe-inspiring that Rio bit his tongue – the hot, metallic taste of blood filling his mouth. Her head alone was probably three times the size of Rio, made up of one huge upper and lower jaw. The skin was a dark slate colour with patches of lighter grey and white covering her nose...'

'...The whale's head was probably out of the water mere seconds, but it was as if time had stopped, and in that way Rio managed to drink in every last detail. The crinkly outline round her one visible eye, how the barnacles stuck to her snout in coarse, uneven clumps, the white meshy stuff in her mouth that Marina had said was called baleen.'
